inches

Real miscategorization here: this is filed under "Condom Trainers" category, but it's clearly an IUD (Intrauterine Device) trainer — an entirely different contraceptive method with nothing to do with condoms. Worth moving to a dedicated IUD/contraceptive trainers category, or creating one if it doesn't exist, since a buyer browsing "Condom Trainers" wouldn't expect or find this product intuitively.

DESCRIPTION (copy-paste into WordPress):

I.U.D. Trainer (160-1912U) — Intrauterine Device Positioning & Insertion Visualization

The I.U.D. Trainer (Item No. 160-1912U, 0.14 kg) by Nasco Healthcare, USA is a hand-held trainer designed as a suitable aid for understanding correct positioning of an Intrauterine Device (IUD) within the uterus.

See exactly what you're teaching. Made of durable plastic with a transparent cover, the trainer allows easy visualization of IUD insertion and placement — letting instructors clearly demonstrate correct technique and students directly observe device positioning rather than working blind, as would be the case with an opaque model.

Compact and practical for classroom use. At just 0.14 kg and roughly $11 \times 8 \times 2$ cm, this hand-held trainer is easy to pass around a classroom or clinical training group, making it practical for both individual demonstration and small-group teaching sessions.

Please note: the I.U.D. device itself is not included — this trainer provides the uterine model and visualization structure only.
