Why Choose the Life/form® Hard Carry Case for Airway Trainers with Stand for Your Simulation Lab in India?

The Life/form® Hard Carry Case for Airway Trainers with Stand (Item No. LF03681U) by Nasco Healthcare, USA is the genuine OEM protective transport case designed specifically for stand-mounted Life/form® Airway Larry trainer configurations. It is the primary carry case for the Advanced "Airway Larry" Trainer Head with Stand, and is also compatible with the "Airway Larry" Airway Management

Trainer with Stand (1005633) and the Adult Airway Management Trainer with Stand (1005596). For simulation labs in India that transport their stand-mounted Airway Larry trainers between training venues — hospital departments, outreach training sessions, skills fairs, or multi-site programmes — this hard case provides the correct level of protection for a high-value airway training head and stand during transit and storage.

The hard case format protects the trainer's precision airway anatomy — the teeth, tongue, vocal cords, epiglottis, and tracheal geometry that define the training value of the Airway Larry family — from the compression, impact, and environmental exposure that soft bags cannot reliably prevent during repeated transport. The case is specifically dimensioned to accommodate the stand-mounted head configuration in a single unit, eliminating the need to disassemble and separately wrap the stand and head for each transport. For simulation labs running outreach or multi-venue programmes where the Airway Larry trainer moves regularly, stocking the OEM carry case is a practical asset protection measure and ensures the trainer arrives at each session in full training condition.
