Product Description

Includes board, lungs, stomach, and hard carry case for "Airway Larry" Airway Management Trainer Head (1012740).

Why Choose the Life/form® Mounting Kit for Airway Larry Management Head for Your Simulation Lab in India?

The Life/form® Mounting Kit for Airway Larry Management Head (Item No. LF03735U / 1019812) by Nasco Healthcare, USA is the genuine OEM kit that converts the Life/form® "Airway Larry" Airway Management Trainer Head (1012740) from a standalone head into a fully equipped board-mounted training platform. The kit includes four components: a mounting board, lungs, stomach, and hard carry case — everything required to mount the 1012740 head on a board with complete ventilation feedback capability and transport protection in a single purchase. For simulation labs that own the 1012740 head and want to add board mounting with the complete consumables set and a carry case without sourcing each component separately, this kit is the correct and most efficient procurement path.

The board provides the stable horizontal mounting surface that holds the head at the correct working angle for intubation training, replacing the need for a separate stand and enabling the mounted configuration to be used on any flat surface. The lungs and stomach are the ventilation feedback consumables that must be present for bilateral auscultation confirmation of tube placement and gastric distension feedback on oesophageal intubation — two training feedback mechanisms that require functional consumables in place. The hard carry case protects the entire mounted assembly during transport between venues, making this configuration suitable for multi-site simulation programmes. The 1012740 head itself is sold separately and must be ordered alongside this kit if not already owned.
