Why Choose the SONOtrain™ Ultrasound Foreign Body Model – Spare Block for Your Training Lab in India?

The SONOtrain™ Ultrasound Foreign Body Model – Spare Block (Item No. 1019651 / XP121) by 3B Scientific is a replacement insert designed for the SONOtrain™ ultrasound foreign body model (P121 / 1019636). For emergency medicine departments, trauma training centres, and sonography schools in India that already own the full foreign body trainer, this spare block lets you renew the tissue insert once the original has worn from repeated scanning and probing — without buying an entirely new unit.

This spare block contains six different, clearly detectable and recognisable foreign body inserts: pellets, shards of glass, a nail, a projectile, chippings, and splinters of wood — covering the range of foreign bodies clinicians most commonly need to localise on ultrasound in trauma and emergency settings. Replacing the block restores realistic detection and echogenicity to your existing trainer, extending its service life at a fraction of the cost of a full replacement model.
