Product Description

With the decubitus trainer, nursing and medical students can learn about professional assessment (examination, measurement and description), wound care and bandaging techniques in various stages of decubitus. This training can considerably improve standards in recognizing and taking care of decubitus in real patients. The material of the decubitus trainer is flexible and can help provide realistic training in changing and putting on dressings and bandages, which form a considerable part of nursing and wound care. The following decubitus stages are shown on the trainer: Decubitus grade 1 (greater trochanter – right) On the greater trochanter, a grade 1 decubitus can be seen: there is redness, but the skin is intact. Decubitus grade 2 (buttocks – right) In the sacrum area (Os sacrum) Partial skin loss is visible: the outer skin (epidermis) shows signs of damage which extends into the dermis (corium). The superficial pressure injury shown can manifest itself through the development of blisters and skin abrasions. Decubitus grade 3 (buttocks – left) In the lower left area of the buttocks, grade 3 decubitus can be seen: recognized by the loss of all layers of the skin, with damage to the subcutaneous tissue, through to necrosis. This is recognizable by the black coloration in the wound area. Decubitus grade 4 (greater trochanter – left, sacrum) A pronounced grade 4 decubitus is presented on the greater trochanter (trochanter major) and on the sacrum (os sacrum): all skin layers and muscle fascia have been destroyed. Necrotic areas have been marked black. The muscles and bone areas below this layer are also affected. This damage could become necrotic. Supporting structures such as tendons, ligaments or joint structures can also be affected. Pocket formations, more or less extended, can also be seen. Delivery contents:

- Decubitus trainer (buttocks simulation)
- Carry case

Decubitus Trainer (1019698 [P15])

The Decubitus Trainer (Item No. 1019698 [P15], 2.13 kg, 33×37.5×15 cm) by 3B Scientific lets nursing and medical students learn professional assessment — examination, measurement, and description — along with wound care and bandaging techniques across the various stages of decubitus (pressure) ulcers.

Flexible material for realistic hands-on practice. The trainer's flexible material supports realistic training in changing and applying dressings and bandages, a core part of nursing and wound care.

Four decubitus grades presented across the model:

- Grade 1 (right greater trochanter) — redness present, but skin remains intact.
- Grade 2 (right buttock/sacrum) — partial skin loss, with damage extending from the epidermis into the dermis; may present as blisters or skin abrasions.
- Grade 3 (left lower buttock) — full loss of all skin layers with subcutaneous tissue damage through to necrosis, shown by black-colored tissue in the wound area.
- Grade 4 (left greater trochanter and sacrum) — all skin layers and muscle fascia destroyed, with necrotic areas marked black; underlying muscle, bone, tendons, ligaments, and joint structures may also be affected, with possible pocket formation.

Improves real-world recognition and care. Training on this model can considerably improve standards in recognizing and managing decubitus ulcers in real patients.

Comes complete with: the decubitus trainer (buttocks simulation) and a carry case.
