Product Description

Replacement skin for IV injection hand trainer W44600.
Clean, simple data here — Item No. "140-141 R" (a slightly unusual format vs. the LF-prefixed items, but not contradictory with anything else on the page), weight, and brand all present and consistent. Description is thin (one sentence) but at least correctly names its parent product (W44600), so nothing to flag as wrong — just thin.

Replacement Skin — For IV Injection Hand Trainer W44600

The Replacement Skin for IV Injection Hand (Item No. 140-141 R, 0.19 kg) by Nasco Healthcare, USA is the designated replacement skin for the IV Injection Hand Trainer (W44600). It refreshes the venipuncture practice surface on an existing hand trainer without requiring a full unit replacement.

Why this matters for repeated student use: the skin on an IV injection hand trainer takes direct, repeated needle insertion at the same venous access points across a term's worth of practice. As that surface wears from puncture marks and loses its "roll and pop" realism, training quality drops even though the underlying trainer mechanism is still functional. A replacement skin restores realistic tactile feedback at a fraction of the cost of buying a new trainer.
